"Fires of Conscience"

6-ACTS-6

A drama of the big out-doors, with its Cowboys, Dance Hall Girls and the rough element that went to make up the old west. All this is intermingled with refined eastern society life.

Man's work confronts the big hero of this play and there is a task before him—a battle with himself and with his enemies. Fearlessly he surges onward and upward.

Special Music on the Photoplayer Pipe Organ.

Football Team Leaves for Game at Baker. Championship of Eastern Oregon Will Be Decided—Boys Not Confident But Hope for Final Victory.

The local high school football team left this morning for Baker where it will engage the team of that city tomorrow afternoon to decide the championship of eastern Oregon. The boys are not very confident of victory because of the great amount of sickness in their ranks but believe that the Baker team will have to fight hard for victory. The boys that are on the sick list are Bowman, Friedley, R. Ulrich and Carr. It is possible that Bowman and Friedley will not be able to play in the game at all, while Carr and Ulrich will not be at their best.

The boys to take the trip are Huey, Casey, Wilbur, Friedley, Moll, C. Hargrett, Judd, Geraunt, Brown, R. Hargrett, C. Ulrich, R. Ulrich, Snyder, Carr, Bowman and Hays.

TALK OF DOUBLE STRUGGLE GIVES FARNUM VITAL ROLE

Two fights, one against himself, the other against those who are breaking the laws of mankind, give William Farnum opportunity to display his remarkable histrionic ability in William Fox's new photoplay, "Fires of Conscience." Farnum takes the part of George Baxter, a man of impulse, who has fled to the west after killing the man who had ruined the happiness of his home.

In Arizona, Baxter meets Nell Blythe (Nell Shipman), a good woman, who makes her living by singing in the dance halls and saloons. She realizes that some influence is quieting the life of the big man she loves, and she begs him to go back east and face justice. He goes.

In his native city, he is tried before a judge (William Farnum) who is father of the man he had killed. But the judge knows that his son's death was deserved, and instructs the jury to bring a verdict of "Not guilty."

"This," he says, "is a case of the unwritten law."

Freed from the shadow that has fast its gloom over his life, George Baxter returns to the west and finds Nell waiting for him.

Pastime today.

Noted Singer Here Tonight.

Accompanied by her husband, who is one of Portland's foremost violinists, and Miss Van Dyke, pianist, Mrs. Pauline Miller Chapman arrived from Portland today. The three participants in a big concert this evening at the Alta theater at 8:15. Much could be said of the merits of all three of the musicians, but time and space forbid. Yet in passing it should be remembered that few northwest sopranos have attained the distinction Mrs. Chapman has. Her long schooling and concert work in Europe attests this fact. The program this evening will be one long to be remembered.

Another Super-Feature at the Cosy Thursday-Friday.

Four weeks of work at five-thirty a. m.; a near escape of the director and cameraman from death when a two-thousand year old tree was felled for the picture, and the serious, possibly permanent illness of the leading lady were the principal incidents in the making of the Bluebird photoplay, "The End of the Rainbow," by Director Lynn Reynolds, in which Myrtle Gonzales and Val Paul are starred.

"WOLF WOMAN'S BOUDOIR" A MAGNIFICENT SETTING

Brick-a-brack and Furnishings Which Surround Louise Glaum Are Worth Small Fortune.

"The most elaborate interior set we have yet made!" Such was the way in which Art Director Robert Brinton described the apartments built for the character of "Lila Arabelle" in "The Wolf Woman," the Triangle "vampire" drama, by C. Gardner Sullivan, which Thomas H. Ince presents. Louise Glaum and Charles Ray are co-stars. In identifying the setting, Author Sullivan used the words "the incense-laden den of the spider," and it was from that vivid description that Brinton visualized what he later constructed. The setting required three weeks to build and covered a floor space of nearly 300 feet square.

It consisted of four distinct rooms and a reception hall and was adorned with furniture, draperies, bric-a-brac, etc., valued at several thousand dollars.

"The Wolf Woman" will be at the Temple today and tomorrow only.

GIVEN BY
Pauline Miller Chapmin
MEZZO SOPRANO—DRAMATIC.

The vocal solos by Mrs. Chapman are real features of the program. Her voice is very even and almost flawless, with the utmost power and expression in the low tones, and the high notes are well developed and cultivated. It has the same warmth of tone, the same astounding roundness, the same absolute accuracy of pitch, the same beautiful quality from the lowest to the highest, and her selections are all pleasing.

Louis Glaum a Real Vampire
IN TRIANGLE PLAY
"The Wolf Woman"

There are vampire women of all degrees and classes, but Louise Glaum, the Triangle-Ince vampire is rapidly being considered the best in the country. If you've seen her in "The Aryan," "Honor Thy Name," or "Home" you'll understand why.

In "The Wolf Woman" Louise Glaum reaches the height of her dramatic ability. The play was written especially for her, and is by far the best in which she has appeared. You'll enjoy it.
